

Thomas Blechinger, REMSA Director
President, Plasser American Corporation

Thomas Blechinger began his career in the railroad and manufacturing industry on the shop floor of Plasser & Theurer in Austria as an apprentice more than 25 years ago. Over the years, through extensive practice and experience, Blechinger worked his way up to his current position as President & CEO of Plasser American Corporation. Blechinger holds two Masters Degrees, one in Business Administration and the other in Management.